

Wipes clog pipes!

Many household cleaning products are labeled and marketed as “disposable” but that doesn’t mean you should flush them down the toilet. Items include:

- disinfecting wipes
- baby wipes
- mop refills
- paper towels
- towelettes

These products don’t dissolve once they are flushed; they clog private pipes that cause expensive and time consuming repairs for homeowners. On a larger scale, these products also get tangled up and stuck in public sewer pipes and pump station equipment leading to unpleasant sewer backups. Save yourself and your wastewater utility from a pain in the drain — put wipes, rags and towels in the trash, not the toilet.

Wipes clog pipes!

Put them in the TRASH -
not the toilet!

Put them in the TRASH -
not the toilet!

Wipes
clog pipes!

Wipes clog pipes!

Many household cleaning products are labeled and marketed as “disposable” but that doesn’t mean you should flush them down the toilet. Items include:

- disinfecting wipes
- baby wipes
- mop refills
- paper towels
- toilettes

These products don’t dissolve once they are flushed; they clog private pipes that cause expensive and time consuming repairs for homeowners. On a larger scale, these products also get tangled up and stuck in public sewer pipes and pump station equipment leading to unpleasant sewer backups. Save yourself and your wastewater utility from a pain in the drain — put wipes, rags and towels in the trash, not the toilet.

